Zemax Optic Studio 14.2 Cracked 146

The screenshot displays the Zemax OpticStudio 17 interface. The main window shows a 3D model of a lens system with light rays passing through several elements. A graph in the top right corner plots the Modulus of the OTF against Spatial Frequency in cycles per mm, showing two curves (one solid green, one dashed green) that decrease as frequency increases. The Merit Function Editor window is open, showing the current operand (BLNK) and its settings. The Merit Function is 0.0136545948832867. The optimization function is set to RMS, and the criteria is Contrast. The reference is set to Centroid. The optimization wizard shows the current operand (BLNK) and its settings, including the number of rings (7) and arms (6). The merit function table is also visible, showing the contribution of various operands to the total merit function.
